SCOUTING

THE SHOPS with Sally

We may as well confess at the outset that we are somewhat new at this business of "scouting the shops." It's true enough that in younger and more hopeful days we were once a member of the Girl Scouts, but, taken all in all, that episode seemed of little practical help when the Editor shooed us out of the shop this morning with a paper, pencil, and stern admonition to "scout through the shops."

"Daly City housewives are a busy people," he told us with a final wave of the hand, "and it's up to you to save them time and money. Browse through the stores, look for bargains, find what is new and exciting and inexpensive. And don't forget the human interest angle."

By the time we reached Farmers Meat company we were feeling quite bitter about it all. Human interest angle, indeed!

But just at this moment our woes suddenly disappeared like magic as we caught sight of a line of plump young fryers. The Editor might not find much "human interest" in the fact that Farmers Meat company was selling fryers at 28 cents a pound this week, but John (he's our husband) could be depended upon to find plenty.

Next stop was at Henry Warshawski's in the vague hope of finding something for Sue to wear to school. There before a table heaped with adorable little wash dresses we oh-ed and ah-ed in admiration, wondering how they could afford to sell such dainty frocks for only 39 cents.

Crossing the street to Milo's market our mind reverted to food with a vengeance. There were so many bargains that only sheer will-power kept us from stocking up as for a famine. Sweet pickled corned legs of pork were only 19 cents a pound; baby foods in all the well-known brands, were 3 tins for 19 cents; corn flakes, a large package, 5 cents, and such an array of fresh fish and fowl, including fresh young rabbits, 3 for 95 cents. Our salad problem was quickly solved by a special combination of crisp spring vegetables at only 25 cents.

At the Cut-Rate Market we further stocked the pantry by taking advantage of a special on tomato juice—large No. 1 cans for only 5 cents. We might mention in passing that they also had an excellent special on powdered and brown sugar at only 6½ cents a package.

Stopping in at Edward's Drug Store to buy a tooth-brush, we noticed the best-looking field glasses I've seen in many a day—and at only a dollar a pair!

Despite the mounting bundles in our arms, we went around the corner to the Philosophy Store, and found it a veritable treasure trove of delicious cheeses and lunch meats. Prices were as low as the variety was tempting.

Remembering that we hadn't visited the Grannucci Ravioli Factory, yet, we paused for a moment outside to marvel at the astonishing array of macaroni, spaghetti, etc. Going inside, we found that their quality 100 per cent pure Semolina paste was selling at the low price of 10 pounds for 60 cents.

At the Westlake Market,

Notes FOR THE HOUSEWIFE by Gail Kittredge

CAKES THAT ARE DIFFERENT
Is there anything more satisfying in the way of dessert than a feathery, fine-textured, delicately-flavored, white cake, with swirls of smooth, glistening frosting covering the top and sides? Truly it is the ideal finish for a company or family meal, and the perfect dessert accompaniment for a party. But the cake must be good! Moist, velvety in texture, light, tempting, delectable in flavor, and fine and even in grain with no large holes—these mean perfection in a cake.

This pattern recipe for a White Cake fulfills each one of the above requirements and is the sort of perfect recipe that is far too rarely achieved.

BASIC WHITE CAKE
2 cups sifted cake flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
½ cup butter or other shortening
1 cup sugar
Flavoring extract
2/3 cup milk
2 egg whites, stiffly beaten

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt, and sift together three times. Cream butter thoroughly, add sugar gradually, and cream together until light and fluffy. Add flavoring extract. Add flour, alternately with milk, a small amount at a time, beating after each addition until smooth. Fold in egg whites quickly yet thoroughly. Bake in two greased 8-inch layer pans in moderately hot oven (375°F.) 25 to 30 minutes. A smooth, fluffy, 7-Minute Frosting adds the finishing touch to this cake particularly from the standpoint of flavor. But, first, the recipe!

BASIC 7-MINUTE FROSTING
2 egg whites, unbeaten
1½ cups sugar
5 tablespoons water
1½ teaspoons corn syrup
¼ teaspoon salt
Flavoring extract

Combine all ingredients except flavoring extract in top of double boiler. Beat with rotary egg beater until thoroughly mixed. Place over rapidly boiling water, beat constantly with rotary egg beater and cook 7 minutes, or until frosting will stand in peaks. Remove from boiling water; add flavoring extract, and beat until thick enough to spread. Makes enough frosting to cover tops and sides of two 3-inch layers or 2 dozen cup cakes.

And here's a challenge in cookery: Leave the beaten path, occasionally, and try something different. It will make cake baking far more interesting to you, and it will add personality and distinction to your cakes. To do this, use a new combination of extracts in the cake and then secure a subtle blend of flavor by choosing to combine a second and different flavoring extract in the cake frosting with that in the cake.

Here are a number of just such delectable combinations—all of them brand new, delicious and different:

Suggested Flavor Combinations

With ½ TEASPOON BLACK WALNUT in the cake, select one of the following flavors for the frosting:

½ teaspoon LEMON and ½ teaspoon ORANGE

or ½ to ¾ teaspoon MAPLE

or ½ teaspoon ORANGE

or ½ teaspoon LEMON

With ½ TEASPOON ORANGE in the cake, select one of the following flavors for the frosting:
½ teaspoon VANILLA and ½ teaspoon ALMOND

or ½ teaspoon LEMON and
6-8 drops ESSENCE OF PEPPER-MINT

or ½ teaspoon VANILLA and
½ to ¾ teaspoon BLACK WALNUT

With ¼ TEASPOON LEMON in the cake, select one of the following flavors for the frosting:

¼ teaspoon ORANGE and
6-8 drops ESSENCE OF PEPPER-MINT

Every Country Has Its Own Meat Loaf

Expert Gives Two of Her Own Favorite Recipes

By EDITH M. BARBER

EVERY country has its own favorite meat loaves. Covered with pastry, it may be called by another name, but the mixture itself is very much like what we use for a loaf. One of my favorite recipes comes from Vienna and depends upon sour cream for its delicate flavor.

Another recipe which I like very much is probably a sort of a hybrid. It came to me from Wisconsin and it may have started out in life as a German or a Scandinavian creation. The addition of catsup is doubtless an American touch. A brown gravy or a tomato sauce may be served with this loaf. If served cold you may like a tartare sauce with it.

Apple rings or stewed prunes may be baked around the loaf if it is molded rather than baked in a bread pan. Alternate rings of apples and onions will give a delicious flavor during the baking and will then replace a sauce.

Wisconsin Meat Loaf.

2 pounds lean beef, chopped
 1/2 pound chopped salt pork
 2 eggs, slightly beaten
 1 cup milk
 3 tablespoons melted butter
 3 tablespoons catsup
 1/4 teaspoon pepper
 1 tablespoon salt
 1 medium sized onion, minced
 1 cup soft bread crumbs

Mix all ingredients together and shape into a loaf. Cover with strips of bacon if desired. Bake in a moderate oven (375 degrees Fahrenheit) an hour and a half.

Vienna Meat Loaf.

1 pound ground pork
 1 pound ground beef
 1/2 cup soft bread crumbs
 1/2 cup milk
 Salt and pepper
 1 egg
 6 tablespoons sour cream
 To the ground meat add the bread crumbs, soaked in milk. Season. Add the egg, and mix thoroughly. Put the mixture into a loaf pan, greased lightly. Cook one hour in a moderate oven (375 degrees Fahrenheit) basting occasionally with 4 tablespoons butter melted in 1 cup of hot water. Twenty minutes before removing from oven pour the cream over the meat.

SOME TESTED RECIPES

Jellied Veal.

2 tablespoons granulated gelatin
 1 cup cold water
 2 cups stock, well seasoned, or 2 bouillon cubes dissolved in 2 cups boiling water
 1 onion, minced
 1 stalk celery with leaves
 1 tablespoon tarragon vinegar
 2 cups cooked veal, chopped
 1/2 cup pimientos
 2 tablespoons finely chopped parsley
 1 1/2 cups cut celery
 Soak gelatin in cold water about five minutes. Bring the stock, with the onion and celery to a boil and let cook three minutes, strain and add to softened gelatin, add vinegar. Cool, and when mixture begins to set, fold in veal, pimientos, parsley and celery. Turn into a mold and chill. Remove from mold and cut into slices for service.

Crown Roast of Pork

5 or 6 pounds crown pork roast
 Salt
 Pepper

1 cup cranberries
 2 cups diced apples
 1/2 cup sugar
 12 crackers, broken
 Place roast in pan, season and sear in hot oven, 500 degrees Fahrenheit. Wash cranberries and combine with apples and sugar and then with crackers. Heap this mixture in center of the scored crown roast. Cover and roast in a hot oven, 425 degrees Fahrenheit, allowing 25 to 30 minutes to the pound.

Lamb, it is said, combines well with all vegetables and fruits.

Has the meat loaf become a menu standby at your house? If so, well and good, because it deserves to be served often in every household.

Wild Rice With Mushrooms.

1 cup wild rice
 1/2 cup butter
 2 onions, chopped
 1/2 pound mushrooms
 Cook rice in boiling salted water until tender. Drain. Melt half the butter, saute onions and mushrooms, which have been sliced, in it for five minutes. Add remaining butter and heat. Mix rice with mushrooms and serve.

Creamed Salt Codfish.

1 1/2 cups salt codfish
 2 cups white sauce
 Hard-cooked egg
 Paprika
 Shred codfish and rinse with boiling water. Combine with white sauce and serve garnished with slices of hard-cooked egg and paprika.

Melasses Pie.

1/2 cup molasses
 1/2 cup boiling water
 1/2 teaspoon soda
 Pastry
 1 cup flour
 1/2 cup sugar
 1 1/2 tablespoons butter
 Mix the molasses together with water and soda. Beat until foamy. Pour into a pie pan lined with pastry. Mix flour, sugar and butter to make crumbs. Sprinkle over top of pie. Bake for 30 minutes in a moderate oven, (350 degrees Fahrenheit).

KNOW THYSELF
by DR. GEORGE D. GREER

IS IT NORMAL FOR PEOPLE TO TOSS DURING SLEEP?

EXTENSIVE studies of sleeping people have been conducted over a period of several years by Dr. Donald A. Laird of Colgate university. He has found that nobody ever sleeps "like a log" all night, but that there is almost constant movement of the sleeper from one position to another. These movements increase from hour to hour during the night, and Laird calls this "sleep-crescendo." There is a typical sleep movement for each individual, and he deviates from it only when something upsets him. Dr. Laird suggests the possibility of analyzing illness through sleep-movements. People of the same family tend to have similar sleep-movement habits.

Scouting the Shops

among all the other tempting fresh fruits and vegetables in stock, were strawberries at only 5½ cents a box. With visions of fresh luscious ripe strawberry shortcake, rich red strawberry jam, and just plain strawberries and cream, we bought a dozen boxes.

Speaking of bargains, at Lucca Ravioli Factory in the south end we bought a ten-pound sack of pure cane sugar for only 49 cents; a lug of large white new potatoes for 75 cents; and 3 pounds of lamb stew for only 25 cents. We have always thought Lucca Ravioli Factory to be one of this community's finest and most complete markets.

Across the street Casentini's Jefferson Market was featuring the famous "Pace" brand olive oil, with big, little, and middle-sized cans stacked all about. Upon inquiry, we found that a full gallon of this finest Italian oil comes to only $2.25.

At Byrne's radio store we learned of a really marvelous offer in enameled stoves. They are featuring a beautiful modern table-top kitchen range that would make any housewife's heart beat with longing—and the price, only $89.50, is further reduced by the fact that a liberal allowance is made for your old stove.

Stopping at the Mission Creamery a moment to see our milkman, we secretly rejoiced that we didn't have to carry home heavy bottles of milk in addition to all the other bundles we had managed to accumulate. The Mission Creamery delivers to us every morning our allotted quarts of fresh, creamy Grade-A milk.

Over at A. M. Harrison's we were told that the best way to keep the food we had bought fresh and cool was to purchase one of the beautiful new super-value Frigidaires. By saving food from spoiling, making it possible to buy larger quantities at once, and operating at a phenomenally low cost, the new Frigidaire makes possible savings which average more than enough to make the small monthly purchase payment.

We stepped forth again only to notice that next door at the Daly City theater, the current picture was "Gunga Din," the big smash hit we'd been waiting to see.

Instead of the usual two or three strand natural colored pearl necklace try one this spring in the bonbon colors. Sponsored by one of the country's leading novelty jewelry houses, the pearls are being shown in three and four strand necklaces in harmonizing colors, and are charming accents to black and dark blue ensembles.

Household Hints

By BETTY WELLS

IT'S all very la-de-da to have a room done entirely in plain colors, and there's something to be said for such a plan to be sure. A room in monotonous without any pattern has a lot of style, and it usually has a pleasant serenity.

But somehow, it gets a little tiresome after a while, so perhaps the good rule is to save such ideas for special rooms kept for company best. For everyday well-used rooms, it's just as well to include a pleasant patterned fabric—somehow they are more restful to live with, and design-interest most definitely by now has established its place in the decorative sun.

I've been looking at new fabrics for spring refurbishing and as usual those bright yards have set me all a-flutter with ideas for pretty rooms.

On my desk, I have a tempting pile of samples of the new patterns that appealed most to me. Among them there's a lovely shaggy cryanthemum design—the color combination I liked best has dusty lavender pink flowers on white ground with dull green for leaves, but there are many other colors in the same pattern. Another sample has a deep blue ground with big bouquets of old-fashioned flowers and white shells—this is called "Queen Anne Shell." A linen that seems friendly and usable to me has an oak leaf design—it's available in many au-thematic colors, but my pet has an almost white ground with the design in three shades of blue grading to quite a dark blue. A cheery chintz is an intricate new stripe based on Persian motifs. Another unpretentious, but versatile pattern is called "Turkey Berries," with sprays of green leaves and red berries. Quaint and pretty is a fern and flower garland tied with a ribbon bow. A scenic that will go places is "Robin Hood," and for boys big and little there are some salty sailor design chintzes. And many many more than I've space to talk about here.

But watch the drapery counters for signs of spring—remembering that most all this spring crop of fabrics, even the inexpensive ones, will be washable, color fast, pre-shrunk and all of that.

About French Furniture

If you've been passing up French furniture these many years just because you couldn't trot out trains and tiaras to live up to it, then 'tis high time to dust off your attitudes. French furniture does lend itself to elegance, that's true, but it is equally adaptable to a gracious simplicity of living. If you use it with satin and lace trills, it seems a bit on the fussy side for most of us. But if you combine it with more tailored materials or with chintzes you'll find that it has quite a different personality. Flowing lines, a graceful poised tranquility, a tradition of culture . . . if these are the qualities you want in the furniture you choose, then at least think twice about French furniture.

As accent pieces of French, if it is not as the main theme of the room, will add distinction and personality to the ensemble. A pair of French tables or a French chair will go pleasantly in a room furnished otherwise with Georgian furniture. Or consider a French sofa to fill out an ensemble of Victorian heirlooms. French pieces are also quite all right with colonial mahogany—for the wealthy colonists often sent to France for furniture and accessories and used it freely with their own dignified highboys.

Try plain modern textured fabrics with French furniture and see what a debonair contemporary look it will have. Combine French traditional detail with modern sculptured rugs, or add to it sleek modern crystal or porcelain lamps, and finish off with tailored curtains instead of ruffles and fringes.

For never, probably, has furniture reached a higher level of refinement than in France under the Louises. So essentially fine were the furniture forms developed during this time that it has that universal quality of adaptability in common with all real masterpieces.

Gingham Parades In Highest Style

Stunning Patternings and Colorings Are Shown.

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

When you say gingham this season it does not mean a kitchen dress or everyday utilitarian frock, for gingham is now acclaimed as high-style for suits as well as dresses to wear when you go shopping or stop at the club for lunch. Be among the advance guard in the spring style parade, choose the handsomest gingham you can find, (they sure are showing stunning patternings and colorings this season) tailor it in jacket-and-skirt fashion, or redingote and skirt, or in costume manner (one piece dress with redingote) and we promise you that you will be getting more wear out of this stylish outfit than any you possess. The new dainty white lingerie blouse sets off a gingham suit to perfection. Try it and see!

Vails, everywhere vails, nothing less than a riot of vails! They provide a basis for coloring in that the color veil you choose should be smartly matched with your gloves and your boutonniere.

A cunning way and just about as bewitching as fancy might picture is to bring the veil down tight over the top of your hat and tie it in a monstrous bow under the chin. Tiny straw sailors have veiling tied about crown and bowed in high sprightly loops at the back.

Detachable Skirt Does Double Duty

Buy your new print frock or make it yourself as you will, but if you want it to do double duty see to it that you add a detachable skirt of dark silk crepe that has a wide crush corselet girdle that buttons about the waist, the skirt open up front to show off the print to better advantage.

Terry Pin's Tips on HOUSEWORK

By FREDERIC A. BIRMINGHAM

© Consolidated News Features, Inc.—WNU Service.

THE home is the backbone of the nation. Like any backbone, it will get cold if you leave the windows open, but it never needs to be scratched.

Housework is what wives do while they wait for their husbands to come home. Housework is cleaning ashtrays, eating chocolates, and trying to figure out what the butcher should deliver for dinner. This is all terribly difficult. It is even more difficult when a good movie is showing down at the corner.

Housewives face strenuous tasks. Window cleaning, for instance, is so strenuous that the man hired to do it sometimes has a headache the whole night afterwards.

Spring cleaning is a large part of housework. Spring cleaning means taking everything out of closets, looking at them, and putting them back in other closets.

By five o'clock, the egg on the breakfast dishes sure is stuck on hard.

To Lend a Lacy Look

The importance of silk lace, not only as a trimming but for entire dresses, is an interesting new note struck by outstanding designers.

Fashionable Silks Stress Plaids, Stripes and Checks

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

WHAT are you doing about plaids, stripes, dots and checks in print silks for your spring and summer frocks, for your redingotes or bolero costume suits and for the many blouses you will need to complete a smart wardrobe? If you have not already done so, you really should take steps in this matter, for one or the other of these types has practically become a "must" in the up-to-the-minute clothes collection.

Your choice is in no way limited, for every type from classic checks and stripes to color-glittered plaids are represented and it's ditto for dots. Quaint checks in conventional sizes and simple two-color treatment which return to vogue with the "southern belle" fashions, inspired by the movie version of "Gone With the Wind," are at their best in stiff silks, such as taffeta or taffeta-ized silk crepe. These checks are as stylish for mother as they are for daughter, and as chic for evening as for day wear. Reminiscent of Civil war days is the dress shown to the right in the illustration. It is of black and white checked silk taffeta with deep square décolletage both front and back. Dainty white lingerie embroidery (most every costume carries a lingerie touch this season) outlines the squared neckline and trims the sprightly puff sleeves.

Surah silk is big news. Paris dressmakers are making a big to-do about this silk, hailing its revival as one of the most significant fabric style trends this season. The new check surahs will delight you as also will the dotted patternings.

There's no end to stripes. They start pin-stripe size and continue to run the gamut into wide, wider, widest versions. To be had, are the prim and quaint Victorian stripes mostly just one-color on white, or if you are style alert you'll want silks in the handsome wider directoire stripes, or if you have gone gypsy as is the way of fashion this spring you will insist on stripes in vivacious coloring for a full skirt to wear with your new sheer white blouse. With your navy or black suit you'll be right in style if you wear a hat of Spanish stripes silk and carry a bag to match.

Simple stripes, one color on white, are quite a featured theme in the latest fashions. See the dress centered in the group. It is made of black and white striped taffeta. It has the old-fashioned look that is so decidedly new-fashioned for spring and summer 1939.

You will not be able to resist the new plaid silks such as fashions the stunning daytime dress pictured to the left in the foreground. Solid blocks of color form the plaid in this printed silk crepe dress. It's the last word in chic, is this striking and youthful dress with its swing skirt that measures yards and yards about the hemline. The bodice is draped and is detailed with a soft knotted bow. The lingerie touch is introduced by a band of white mousseline de sole, edging the neckline and the sleeves.

These plaid silks are just the thing for the blouse you will wear with your navy or black or the new navy-green suit that is causing such a furore in Paris. Capes and jackets lined with plaid silk are on the style program, too, as are also the new petticoats that are the style sensation of the moment.

Plaid Jacket Used For Paquin Model

A sample of the suit fashions from Paris is a Paquin sports model with a pastel-colored plaid jacket, in greens, rose, and beige, and a plaid skirt of beige cashmere wool. The husky revers are an item of importance to the cut of this suit.

A suit from Schiaparelli, the master suit maker, has a brown, smooth wool skirt with stitched plaits at the front and back. The fitted, hip-length jacket is beige wool, and buttons down the front on three tortoise shell buttons. Twisted bands of the material are applied on the front of the jacket. A blouse of Parma violet brocade goes with this model, and a scarf of the same.

Style Notes

Fashions are young and feminine.

It's a season of frills and furrows.

You'll need a whole wardrobe of blouses.

New colorful shell jewelry is very attractive.

Patent pumps open heel and toe are favorites.

Jacketed small prints are smart style for day.

Gingham tailored suits are chic to wear about town.

Wide crush waistband in place of belt is the new trend.

Wear white hat, white veil, white accessories with your spring suit.

LITTLE STORIES FOR BEDTIME

by Thornton W. Burgess

PETER RABBIT HEARS NEWS OF LITTLE MITE

PETER RABBIT hopped up the Lone Little Path brim full of news that Danny Meadow Mouse had a family. He fairly ached for someone to come along to whom he could tell it. Peter just loves to tell news. But no one did come along and Peter kept on, all the time watching out ever so sharp for a little wee, lost Meadow Mouse. Way over on the Green Meadows he heard a frightened yelping growing fainter and fainter. He sat up as high as he could to look and way off in the distance he saw a black-and-white dog running so fast that his ears flapped. His tail was between his legs and he was crying "Ki-yi! ki-yi!" at the top of his voice.

He saw a little black and white dog running so fast that his ears flapped.

"Wonder what ails him," thought Peter. "Serves him right anyway. He had no business down here on our Green Meadows. I never could understand what possible good a dog is anyway. He is always poking his nose in and making trouble for the rest of us. There come the Merry Little Breezes and perhaps they know what it is about." Sure enough there came the Merry Little Breezes of Old Mother West Wind dancing over the tops of the grasses. They were coming from the direction of the little dog and they seemed to be very merry and happy about something. As soon as they saw Peter they danced over to him.

"What's the matter with that little dog?" demanded Peter.

"He met Black Pussy and he didn't like the meeting. In fact, Black Pussy has frightened him most to death and that is why he is running so fast," they replied.

Peter grinned. "I'm glad that Black Pussy is of some use," said he, "though for my part I had about as soon have the dog around as her. Now I wish something or somebody would come along and give her just as bad a scare as she has given that little dog. By the way, have you heard the news?"

"What news?" asked the Merry Little Breezes, looking at Peter suspiciously. You see Peter's news sometimes proved to be no news at all.

"Why, about Danny Meadow Mouse! He has a wife and family!" Peter fairly shouted it.

Instantly the Merry Little Breezes crowded about Peter and demanded to know how he knew, and said that they didn't believe it because they didn't see how Danny could have kept it secret from them so long.

"It is so!" Peter was just a wee bit provoked to think that they should doubt his word. "Danny told me so himself. More than that he told me that one of his babies has run away and is lost. He's out hunting for it now, and so am I." Peter made ready to move on.

The minute Peter mentioned the lost baby Meadow Mouse the Merry Little Breezes became very much excited.

"That is just who Black Pussy caught!" declared one.

Peter looked startled. "What is that you said?" he cried.

Then the Merry Little Breezes told him how they had found Black Pussy tormenting a wee, terribly frightened Meadow Mouse, and how they led the little black-and-white dog to where Black Pussy was just in time to save the wee Mouse, who ran away and hid, while Black Pussy was chasing the dog.

"But where is he now?" asked Peter.

The Merry Little Breezes shook their heads. "We don't know," they confessed. "We followed Black Pussy to see the fun and when we got back the little Mouse was nowhere about, although we hunted everywhere. If we had known he was Danny's baby we wouldn't have left him at all. We'll have to make up now by helping in the hunt."

"That will be splendid!" cried Peter happily.

And with that they all scattered to hunt for little Mite, the lost baby of Danny Meadow Mouse.

Shirtwaist Frock Latest for Evening

The shirtwaist-and-skirt theme for evening has quite a following. Some gay spirits have concocted informal dinner gowns by adding a bishop-sleeved shirtwaist blouse of white silk or dotted chiffon to the long dark skirts of their evening tailors. Sometimes they link the two with a gay cummerbund.

Others dress for informal home dinners in a long dark skirt and a sheer short-sleeved white organdy blouse.
